

About These Trails:

Longfellow's Wayside Inn is a nonprofit corporation created in 1944 to own, operate, and maintain the Wayside Inn Historic Site. The site encompasses nine historic buildings and 100 acres of fields, forests, ponds, streams, and gardens. The centerpiece is the inn itself, which sits majestically along the historic Old Boston Post Road and continues an inn-keeping tradition, dating back to 1716, of serving local communities as well as visitors from around the world and of all ages.

The Wayside Inn provides a unique, tranquil, and historic setting rooted in colonial American traditions where family and friends can make lasting memories, and it is proud to offer a trail system for public enjoyment.

Sudbury Valley Trustees (SVT) is a nonprofit organization that protects natural areas and farmland in a 36-community region between Boston and Worcester. SVT maintains more than 60 miles of trails in the region, including several trails within a short drive from the Inn.

Paths at Wayside Inn lead to historic buildings and features, including the Martha Mary Chapel, the Cider House, and Carding Mill Pond. SVT and the Inn collaborated to link these paths to a new 1.5 mile Innkeeper's Loop, making it easy for guests to tour the grounds.

The trails at the Wayside Inn are open to the public for non-motorized use and during daylight hours only. The Inn reserves the right to impose rules and regulations regarding trail use, and the Inn may close public access to the trails at any time due to seasonal constraints or Inn events.

This brochure provides a map for the Wayside Inn paths and also highlights nearby trails maintained by SVT and other organizations. Maps for these trails are available at www.svtweb.org/maps.
