

About This Property

Following a bequest from John Wolbach, a long-time Sudbury resident and SVT member, Wolbach Farm has been SVT's headquarters since 2004. John's wishes were to preserve the land "predominately in its natural, scenic and open condition".

His parents had purchased what was then primarily a dairy farm in the 1910s and converted the property into a gentleman's farm. During the Great Depression, the Wolbachs and the neighboring Newton family employed people to plant red pine, Norway spruce, and eastern hemlock in previously pastoral areas and around the house and barn.

Features of Note

- Wolbach Farm is part of the larger Great Meadows ecosystem along the Sudbury River, much of which is owned and managed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's Great Meadows National Wildlife Refuge.
- The ¾-mile main loop of the George Lewis Memorial Trail (named for an SVT founder) takes you along the Winter Brook stream corridor, across a wetland, and then back through the woods to the small field adjacent to the main house. The ½-mile inner loop goes around a wetland and returns to the main loop.
- Visitors with young children may enjoy the Storybook Trail on the main loop as well as the activities and books in the Nature Nook on the side of the office building.
- The rain garden, butterfly garden, and bird garden on these grounds were created as part of an Ecological Landscaping Demonstration Project. Brochures on our website can help you create similar gardens at home: www.svtweb.org/eco-landscape.
